Explaining The Increase In Unemployment

Unemployment is defined by the Bureau of Labor Statistics as people who do not have a job, have actively looked for work in the past four weeks, and are currently available for work. Also, people who were temporarily laid off and were waiting to be called back to that job are included in the unemployment statistics. The BLS reports this in the U-3 report, a part of the monthly jobs report.

Frictional unemployment . Frictional unemployment is transitional unemployment due to people moving between jobs e.g. new entrants to the labour market. There are always hundreds of thousands of job vacancies in modern economies such as the UK, so a degree of frictional unemployment is both unavoidable and (to an extent) desirable so that job vacancies can be filled.
